

Writing & Reading

MYTHS	FACTS
Writing and reading are easy if you're good at it. Only writers with problems need feedback. Good writers write quickly and effortlessly. Good readers read quickly and effortlessly. Good readers understand everything after reading a text once. Good writers know exactly what they want to write. Good writers write well all the time.	Writing and reading are easy if you're not thinking deeply. Good writers seek feedback. Good writers prewrite, draft, revise, revise, edit, and edit again and again. Good readers read and re-read, ask questions, and write down ideas. Good readers read, re-read, and re-read in order to learn more and more each time. Good writers learn as they write and write. Good writers brainstorm and write crappy drafts in order to get their polished result.

